

OFFICIALS ALERT TO SUPPRESS DISORDER

I.W.W. Agitation Rises to Considerable Proportions In The West

DEPORT 1,100 AT BISBEE

Deputy Sheriffs and Citizens Load Men in Cattle Cars— Take Them Out of State

TWO MEN ARE KILLED

BULLETIN.
DOUGLAS, Ariz., July 12.—A telephone message received at midnight from Sheriff Wheeler by James East, chief of police here, said that as the New Mexico authorities refused to allow the Industrial Workers of the World to be detained anywhere in that state they were being brought back this way and probably would reach Douglas on the same train which they left about 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 12.—(Deportation undertaken today at Bisbee, Ariz., of more than 1,000 Industrial Workers of the World, centered the eyes of the nation on agitation which has arisen in the west to considerable proportions after manifesting itself sporadically from coast to coast for years. From the Canadian border to Mexico, civic, state and military authorities were alert tonight to suppress all disorder. Disturbances, fomented and admitted by the organization and ramifying into various branches of industry, carrying with them in virtually every instance a demand for higher wages. Officials in some states pronounce the move one to reduce production of supplies necessary to the conduct of the war, but while German influence and financial support was charged by some of them no direct substantiation of this could be had. Organizers of the I. W. W., especially in Arizona, were reported to be well financed from sources unknown even to those well versed in the workings of the body.

Permits Fairly Extensive View.
Military censorship which repressed accounts of immediate occurrences in Arizona, still permitted a fairly extensive view of the general situation. Strikes were on tonight in the copper mines of Arizona and Montana. They were threatened in the mines of Colorado, Nevada and Utah. There were lumber strikes in Idaho and Washington, with agitation in the lumber districts of Oregon. Threats had been made to destroy the wheat fields of the north west and the state council of defense of Washington appointed a committee especially to deal with the industrial workers lest harm come to the crops. Existing disturbances reached into Mexico.

Bodily resistance to constituted or unconstituted authority has not manifested itself to any great extent in the western operations of the organization. Sixty I. W. W. were deported from Jerome, Ariz., and re-deported from Needles, Calif., without physical violence. Threats attributed to them are generally against property. They say they base their demands and actions on the theories of George Sorel, a Frenchman, and got from him the plan of property destruction as a lever to gain their end, which they define as "Industrial Democracy."

Destruction Takes Many Forms.
This property destruction as advocated and practiced in the west, of late, has taken many forms. Lumber mills have had their costly saws splintered by spikes driven into them. Fruit trees have been driven into them. Fruit trees have been driven into them. Fruit trees have been driven into them.

The organizers proclaim the movement to be world wide. The red flag is the proposed universal banner and each member of the organization carries a red card. Membership is sought in all branches of industry. Organizers say that 2,000 farm laborers belong and that the plantation labor of the south is being organized. It is the history of the Industrial Workers of the World that each branch of industry should help the other in gaining its ends, and Rodger Culver, an I. W. W. speaker, recently said at Miami, Ariz., "If necessary to enforce the miners' demands, there will be no wheat crop in the North American continent."

Threats of wholesale destruction of wheat have not materialized. Deport More Than 1,100.
Bisbee, Ariz., July 12.—More than 1,100 alleged Industrial Workers of the World, deported from Bisbee today are aboard twenty four cattle cars tonight speeding toward New Mexico. Their announced destination is Columbus.

The men were driven from the city by deputy sheriffs and about 2,000 armed men, members of the "Citizens' Protective League." Two men were killed during the work of deportation. A strike was called here by the metal workers' branch of the Industrial Workers of the

WILL MOBILIZE ILLINOIS GUARDSMEN JULY 25

More Than 20,000 Men Will Go To Houston Camp

Number Will Include Two New Hospital Companies—Organized Companies from All Parts of the State Offering Themselves As Units in "Home Guard."

Springfield, Ill., July 12.—Illinois will mobilize more than 20,000 guardsmen on July 25 for sending to the training camp at Houston, Tex., designated for this state, according to records in the office of Adjutant General Dickson whose active preparations are on foot for the military concentration.

This number will include two new hospital companies, the formation of which in Chicago was announced in dispatches to Gen. Dickson from Lieut. Col. Jacob Frank, surgeon general, this morning. They will be commanded by Majors James J. McKinley and Frederick O. Frederickson.

Surgeon General Frank also said four ambulance companies were being organized in Chicago.

The units Illinois will offer are as follows:

Eight regiments of infantry, statutory strength, 2002 enlisted men, 56 officers.

Three regiments of artillery, statutory strength, 1290 enlisted men, 47 officers.

One regiment of engineers, statutory strength, 1061 enlisted men, 36 officers.

Four field hospital companies, statutory strength, 73 enlisted men, 6 officers.

One signal corps company, 75 men, 3 officers.

Adjutant General Dickson stated today all regiments would approximate statutory strength by July 25. Equipment is lacking for most of the units he stated, and probably will not be furnished until the men reach Houston, Texas.

We are ready when the call to mobilize comes," stated Gen. Dickson.

Organized companies from all parts of the state are offering themselves as units in the "Home Guard" regiments authorized by the general assembly, it was stated at Gen. Dickson's office this afternoon. The regiments will be used for police or riot duty within the limits of Illinois should occasion require, after the national guard troops have been called away.

One regiment, to be commanded by Col. C. E. Ryman of Effingham, has been accepted.

More than enough companies have been offered to make up the two other regiments, it was stated, but none as yet has been accepted. Their designation is expected in a few days.

ROOKIE OFFICERS TO USE THREE-INCH FIELD GUNS

PORT SHERIDAN, Ill., July 12.—Three inch field pieces equipped especially with rifle barrels and firing an ordinary rifle bullet are to be used in artillery practice at the officers' reserve training camp here, it was announced today. The guns, part of equipment of the First Illinois Field Artillery are to be so adjusted, that with the exception of the calibre of the shell, the practice will meet all the requirements of actual field service. Two men from each training company here are to serve as officers in training recruits at the second reserve camp at Leon Springs, Tex., it was announced today.

SEEK WILSON'S HELP IN SOLVING DIFFICULTIES

Senate Leaders Lay Food Bill Situation Before President

Executive's Conclusions, to be Communicated to Leaders, Before a Vote is Taken July 21, are Expected to go far Toward Determining Bill's Final Form.

Washington, July 12.—President Wilson's assistance was sought today in solving the senate's difficulties over food control legislation, and his conclusions to be communicated to the leaders before a vote is taken on July 21 are expected to go far toward determining the bill's final form.

While desultory debate proceeded in the senate and sentiment grew in favor of a compromise measure, Senator Martin, Democratic leader and Chairman Simmons of the finance committee went to the white house and laid before Mr. Wilson the whole situation which is holding up action. The house bill as amended and pending in the senate and the greatly restricted substitute prepared by Senator Gore as a compromise were discussed at length and the president agreed to study both measures in detail and report his conclusions. It is understood he was told that the pending bill as amended to extend government control over iron, steel, copper, cotton and other products in addition to food and fuel, must be materially changed if it is to have a change of passage.

Altho the president several times has shown his impatience over the delays in senate consideration of the senate legislation it is understood he showed no resentment in the conference today. He was said to have avoided and definite recommendations pending his study of the two measures but senators with whom the white house callers conferred after their return to the capitol said they were confident the legislation would be revised to deal primarily with foodstuffs and fuel, eliminating steel, iron and other products.

The prohibition question was not discussed with the president except as it incidentally affects federal revenue and the war tax bill. It was predicted tonight that no action would be taken by the president on that feature and that the prohibition compromise probably would be developed in conference. The president is said to have manifested much interest in the agriculture committee amendment designed to prohibit government agents, including the voluntary advisory commission of the defense council, from selling their own products to the government. It is understood, however, no action which would cause the losses of services of men of affairs, especially qualified to aid the government.

At a special meeting today the agriculture committee, altho overwhelmingly the general restricted plan of the Gore measure, decided not to take any formal action on it. Later it was offered in the senate by Senator Gore individually.

TWO BRITISH INDIAN OFFICIALS RESIGN

LONDON, July 12.—Lord Hardinge, the former viceroy of India, today resigned his position as under-secretary of foreign affairs. His resignation, however, was not accepted.

Earlier in the day Austin Chamberlain, secretary of India, resigned. The action of the two Indian officials grew out of the recent report on conduct of affairs in India and the military operations in the east.

Both houses of parliament commenced debate today on the report of the commission which so severely criticised the alleged mismanagement by the Indian government and others of the first British expedition into Mesopotamia.

May Draw Week of July 23
The drawing will not take place this week, and probably will be held some time during the week of July 23, according to present indications. Only 24 states have completed the organization of their exemption boards and the posting of red ink numbers. The drawing cannot be held until all states are complete so that no juggling of numbers will be possible.

The drawing probably will be held in the big reception room of the war department adjoining Secretary Baker's offices. The secretary is willing to do the drawing himself, but that point has not been decided. The president will not take part personally in the drawing.

Officials are unwilling to disclose the details of the drawing itself but the suggestion which seems to have the most support is that the numbers stamped on thin slips of paper, be enclosed in non-transparent gelatin.

POLICE PROHIBIT MATCH.
New York, July 12.—The police prohibited the ten round boxing match between Benny Leonard, champion lightweight, and Frankie Burns of Los Angeles, scheduled for tonight at Arverna, a suburb. During a storm a part of the ceiling fell, injuring several persons, and the officials feared the building was unsafe.

OUTLINE PRINCIPAL FEATURES OF DRAFT

Everyone of Millions Registered Will Be Given Definite Place on List

TO DRAW ALL NUMBERS

Liability for Service Will Be Fixed By the Order in Which the Names Come Out

DRAWING DATE NOT SET

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Secretary Baker announced late today that in the drawing to select men for draft into the war army numbers will be drawn representing every one of the nearly 10,000,000 registered, so that each man may know the order in which he is liable to be called for service.

Liability will be fixed by the order in which the names come out. There are some 6,000 districts with numbered registration cards so the first number drawn will represent the first 6,000 to appear before the exemption boards.

It is estimated that fifty percent of the men examined will be exempted or fail to pass the physical examination so that more than a million men probably will appear before the boards before the 687,000 or more wanted on the first call are obtained.

Each One to Have Place on Lists.
It was revealed tonight that a plan of drawing will be followed under which a definite place in the waiting lists will be given every one of the millions who registered. Those standing at the head of the list in each county or city district will be called first before the examination boards, and then the obligation to pass on down the line as long as men are needed.

This does not mean that a separate name or number will be drawn for every one of the country's 9,860,000 registrants. In fact every number drawn under the theory of the plan will represent more than four thousand men one for each of the registration districts.

Details of the system have not been made public but an outline of its principal features follows: Every registration board has numbered the cards in its possession in red ink beginning at No. 1 and continuing to a number corresponding with the total in the district.

At the drawing numbers will be used ranging from No. 1 to a number corresponding to the total in the largest district of the country. The first drawn will determine what man in each district is to be taken first. If it be No. 10 for example, it will mean that the man in each district holding local card No. 10 will be called for examination before any of the other men in that district.

The second number drawn will determine what man in each district is to be taken second and so on as long as men are needed. Those not needed for the first war army will retain their positions on the lists and these positions will determine the order of their liability when they are needed.

Drawing Will Be Public.
The drawing will be public and each number will be announced as it is drawn. At the offices of most local exemption boards the red ink numbers of the registrants already are posted so that themselves before hand of their respective numbers. If they do as soon as word of the drawing comes they will know in just what order of liability they stand. Obviously there will be high numbers drawn for which there are no corresponding registrants in small districts. The smallest district in the country is understood to have but 187 registrants and the largest about 7,000. Whenever a number beyond the total in an given district comes out it will operate as a blank for that district. Thus if the theory works out evenly the larger districts will be constantly assessed in excess of the smaller, on a pro rata basis corresponding to their size.

May Draw Week of July 23.
The drawing will not take place this week, and probably will be held some time during the week of July 23, according to present indications. Only 24 states have completed the organization of their exemption boards and the posting of red ink numbers. The drawing cannot be held until all states are complete so that no juggling of numbers will be possible.

The drawing probably will be held in the big reception room of the war department adjoining Secretary Baker's offices. The secretary is willing to do the drawing himself, but that point has not been decided. The president will not take part personally in the drawing.

Officials are unwilling to disclose the details of the drawing itself but the suggestion which seems to have the most support is that the numbers stamped on thin slips of paper, be enclosed in non-transparent gelatin.

POSTPONE CONGRESS OF NEUTRALISTS.
Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, July 12.—The congress of neutral South American nations to formulate a common policy in respect of problems arising from the war has been postponed indefinitely.

EDWARDS TO PLAY OUTMET.
Chicago, July 12.—Donald Edwards, medalist, will play Francis Outmet, the former national champion and Kenneth Edwards will play John G. Anderson of New York in the 36 hole semi-finals of the Western Amateur Golf Championship tomorrow as the result of today's matches at the Midlothian Country Club, the home of the Edwards brothers.

SWEDEN NIDIGNANT AT U. S. DESPATCH.
STOCKHOLM, July 12.—General resentment and indignation has been aroused in Sweden by a news despatch from Washington giving what is termed "an official report to the government" on Sweden's exports and imports. The report for which the authority is not named, declares in brief that Sweden exported to Germany great quantities of materials for making ammunition, including especially iron ore, ferrosilicates, manganese, steel, copper, sulphur, zinc and wood pulp and imported iron ore from America to replace the surplus exported.

Even newspapers most friendly to America join the chorus of indignant condemnation of these charges. They declare that America repeatedly protested to England against precisely the same policy which Washington now threatens to adopt against Sweden.

MAJOR GENERAL SIEBERT IN FRENCH CAPITAL

Pershing Visits Large Ammunition Plant in Paris District

American Red Cross Will Take Over French Infirmaries Between Bases and Portion of the Front Where the American Troops Will be Placed.

PARIS, July 12.—Major General William Siebert, who will command the American training camp behind the French front, arrived here today. Major General John J. Pershing, the commander of the American forces, visited the largest ammunition plant in the Paris district today. He was shown about by Albert Thomas, minister of munitions.

It is announced that the American Red Cross will take over all French infirmaries—relief stations—between base and the portion of the front where the American troops will be placed, supplanting the French who will take up other duties elsewhere. The American troops in France, it is made known in a partial report of investigations made by American officers, will discard the poncho while in service in France and will adopt the French cavalry sliker in a modified form as best adopted to trench fighting. The troops also will be equipped with sleeveless canvas jerkins lined with wool as sleeping bags and with numerous other devices that have proved efficacious against the cold of winter.

The puttee will disappear in favor of cloth leggings, such as were used by the expeditionary force in Mexico. Each soldier will have a folding cloth fatigue cap to wear under the steel helmet.

Some idea may be gained of the immensity of the task of supplying the American armies when they reach full strength by the fact that each million men must have a 1,000 refrigeration plant, the steel and iron for which must be brought from America. The refrigerators must be located not only at the base but close behind the fighting line. Storage tanks with a capacity of a million gallons will be needed at the bases with depots for transferring gasoline to obviate the necessity of using trains.

Plans already far advanced include the construction of so-called salvage depots for the repair of worn-out clothing and shoes. A pair of shoes last a soldier in the trenches only three weeks on the average. The magnitude of such depots is shown by those used by the French which employ 7,000 men each. Each billion men probably will consume one million pounds of meat daily.

American army headquarters in Paris rapidly is proving itself too small for the volume of work in progress. A large number of men of the quartermasters department moved today to a hotel formerly largely patronized by American and English visitors, and the chief department is installed in what was formerly the bridal suite.

PROPOSE MINES BE TURNED OVER TO GOVERNMENT.
DENVER, Colo., July 12.—Unless some operators not represented in today's conference with federal mediators who are seeking to avert a strike of metal miners at Leadville agree to turn over their properties to the government for operation and the government accepts the proffer the miners will quit work Saturday morning, it was authoritatively stated tonight.

The principal output of the Leadville district is zinc, much needed for munitions manufacturing. The miners are asking a minimum wage of $4.50 a day, an increase of $1.

Good authority intimated the proposal of the owners had been communicated to Washington. The proposed turn-over of the mines to the government, it was learned, was the sole hope of preventing the strike.

SMALL DEPOSITORS WILL BE PAID FIRST.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 12.—Small depositors of the insolvent Bank of Commerce and Savings in Chicago are to be paid first and the holders of large deposits will get their money later, under a plan worked out by State Auditor Russel and announced today.

A new law effective July 1 gives the state auditor power to appoint receivers for insolvent banks instead of the courts, and he has decided to try a new system.

In order to avoid expense of a receiver, Mr. Russel has prevailed upon large depositors to sign a waiver of their rights to permit the smaller creditors to get their money first. Those signing the waiver will be paid when securities and other assets are converted into cash.

COMPLETE SELECTION OF GUARD CAMP SITES.
Baker Approves Hattiesburg, Miss., and Alexandria, La.

Announces Charge of the Fayetteville, N. C., Site to Charlotte, N. C.—Routing of Guard From all States to Camps Submitted to Major General Bliss.

Washington, July 12.—Selection of camp sites for the national guard was completed today when Secretary Baker approved Hattiesburg, Miss., and Alexandria, Louisiana, and announced the change of the Fayetteville, N. C., site to Charlotte, N. C.

Routing of the guardsmen from all states to the camps for training, preliminary to their departure for France, was immediately worked out by the militia bureau and the list of assignments submitted to Major General Bliss, acting chief of staff, for approval. None of the bureau's recommendations were revealed.

Draft Clause to Apply Aug. 5.
The first increment of the guard will be called into the service of the federal government next June, altho the draft clause of the national defense act will not be applied to any of the guardsmen until August 5. Movement to the camp sites can begin within a few days, as supplies sufficient for the men have already been secured.

The fact that the guard is to be under training even before drawing for the selective army begins indicates that of the men first drawn the first to see service will be those assigned to fill vacancies in the guard or the regulars. Presumably the first men turned into the army by this process will go to these two forces and they may be under orders to join their regiments in less than two weeks.

Regulars Short 39,000 Men.
Today's recruiting bulletin showed that the regulars were short a little more than 39,000 men, which probably will be reduced to less than 10,000 before the draft forces become available. The best obtainable estimates of the National guard strength indicate that they will need less than 100,000 men when they go to camp. No announcement has been made as to the course to be followed with guard regiments already in the federal service and which are doing valuable work in guarding property all over the country.

There are more than 80,000 guardsmen now on the federal payroll for this duty. Whether they will be relieved and sent forward to the camps or maintained at their present posts has not been stated.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR HOLLWEG RESIGNS

Rumor Reaches Holland that Entire German Government Will Resign

KAISER DELAYS DECISION

Reichstag Committee Refuses War Credit Until Peace and Reform Policy is Outlined

SUMMONS CROWN PRINCE

BERNE, July 12.—(British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—The Vossische Zeitung of Berlin says the German imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, has resigned. Emperor William, the newspapers adds, has postponed his decision whether to accept the chancellor's resignation.

Refuses to Vote War Credit.
Amsterdam, Holland, July 12.—A rumor has reached Holland that the entire German government will resign with imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg. The main committee of the Reichstag having refused to vote a war credit unless the government declares its policy regarding peace and reform, which the government has declined to do, an imperial proclamation is considered imminent.

The Vossische Zeitung and Lokal Anzeiger, both of Berlin, agree that the chancellor resigned owing to a letter from the center or clerical party, declaring that the conclusion of peace would be made more difficult if he retained his office.

Results Comparatively Small.
Copenhagen, July 12.—The results of the German political crisis with its displays of extraordinary crown counsils, consultations with the heir to the throne, the formation of insurgent majorities in the Reichstag and a storm of pre-eminence, are, in the first instance at least, comparatively small.

The introduction of the phrase "Equal Suffrage" by the German emperor's Easter manifesto, merely restores a provision which, according to Berlin gossip, was contained in the original draft of the manifesto and was eliminated at the last moment in consequence of the reactionary intrigue against the realization of the emperor's wish for universal, direct and secret suffrage in Prussia by the reactionary Prussian diet, which, on an earlier occasion, did not hesitate to disregard the sovereign's wishes on franchise reform. Nor does the new imperial announcement prescribe the immediate adoption of the reform without waiting for the end of the war and there is not a word for the present introduction of parliamentarism in the imperial administration or of the abandonment of the policy of conquest, or the elimination of reactionary or incompetent ministers which matters have been discussed at great length by the newspapers recently.

Kaiser Summons Crown Prince.
Berne, Switzerland, July 12.—(British Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)—An official communication issued in Berlin yesterday says Emperor William expressed the opinion that the political and constitutional reforms demanded by the Reichstag are such that they concern not merely himself but his successor in as much as they would be permanent. For this reason, the emperor summoned the crown prince to attend one or more crown councils at which final decisions regarding the extent to which the crown and the government will make concessions to the Reichstag will be reached.

Kaiser Interviews Hollweg.
Amsterdam, July 12.—Emperor William had an interview lasting several hours with Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg yesterday and received his report on the political situation, according to semi-official despatch from Berlin.

The chancellor also received several party leaders yesterday afternoon, says an official despatch from Berlin.

A semi-official despatch from Vienna says the report in the Vossische Zeitung of an audience that Herr Mathias Erzberger, leader of the Centrist party, in the Reichstag, had with the Austrian Emperor Charles, is a pure invention.

The crown prince arrived in Berlin on a special train from the front and yesterday noon attended the crown council at which the emperor presided.

WILL NOT SELL TO KRUPPS.
Amsterdam, July 12.—The radical Weser Zeitung, an old newspaper of Bremen, Germany, which it was reported was to be bought by the Krupp interests, which were to make it a Pan-German and annexation organ, is on the market. The owners, however, say they will never agree to sell it to the Krupps.

WORK ON GAS MASK.
Washington, July 12.—Army orders today disclosed the fact that the government and civilian experts are hard at work on the production of an effective anti-gas mask for American troops.

WORKERS SET
A RECORD

Something unprecedented happened in Washington when 900 employees of the bureau of printing and engraving petitioned Secretary McAdoo to rescind his order for an 8 hour day. The employees in this department prefer to work 9 hours.

Patriotism may have inspired their action, and then again the unusual request may have been occasioned by the high cost of living, which makes the wages from 9 hours work preferable just now to the wages from a shorter day. At any rate, a new record has been set by the objection to a shorter working day.

THE EMPEROR'S SPIRIT

How well Count Bernstorff in his activities here interpreted the spirit of the German government is indicated by the rumor that he will be named secretary to succeed Zimmermann. The favor in which the count is held is further shown by the fact that Dr. Anton Meyer-Gerhard, who was Bernstorff's emissary to Emperor William in connection with the Lusitania case, has just been promoted to be ministerial director of the German colonial office.

In their activities in this country, in the perfidy they displayed in various ways—unprecedented in the relations of nations—these men evidently carried out the will of the German emperor and gave a true interpretation of his desires.

APPEALING
TO BUSINESS

There is a strong appeal to patriotism in President Wilson's open letter to the business men that they must deal fairly with the government during war times. The truth of the statement is realized even without reading the president's stirring patriotic sentiments. That appeal will strike a responsive chord in some hearts, but in many instances it is going to take more than appeal if the government and the people get a fair deal in the purchases they make. Many lines of business with national organizations have for weeks maintained lobbies in Washington. The purposes of these lobbies are not patriotic but are designed to protect the interests of the particular line of business they represent.

president laid down was that there must be one price to the government and the people. That means the president recognizes that if the government's price is higher than should be that the public must bear the additional burden, and his point is logical and well taken. If all lines of business are conducted during war times in a way most helpful to the government there will need to be some show of authority in addition to the appeal of patriotism.

SHARING
RESPONSIBILITY

Writing in the New Republic, William Hard has an article on the decentralization of the president, which the Chicago Post is pleased to term the most vital article that has been written since the war began for America. The purpose of Mr. Hard is to warn the something must be speedily done to provide for a sharing of the great present day responsibility with the president. He points out that a vast amount of preparatory work has been done and that the foundations of money, men and hospitals have been laid, and that now the country must soon turn to actual war activity. But before this is done something must be accomplished to relieve the present great concentration of the president's responsibility.

The situation is not only fundamentally wrong, but the work and worry resultant is greater than any human being can long stand. So Mr. Hard believes that the business of working out a plan whereby this great war responsibility may safely rest upon various groups of citizens, is more important than the coming liberty loan, the Red Cross movement or the draft. Party and government leaders have for weeks shared this feeling and the country at large has come into some general understanding of the situation. But it has remained for Mr. Hard to summarize the situation in his vital article.

WAR HAS MADE
ENGLAND PROSPEROUS

Business has been good in England despite the war. B. C. Forbes says in the August American Magazine.

"The people, as a whole, are earning more, spending more and saving more than ever before. Wages were never so high nor work so plentiful. The rich who are not interested in favored manufactures are suffering thru heavy taxation, but the working classes are prospering. The leading department store in London has had a record year."

"That is what comes from England. Business conditions continue to indicate such industrial and commercial activity as the country has not hitherto experienced."

"That is the message a great Canadian bank sends."

"Is it time to get scared to death? I don't believe so at all. I believe firmly that it is going to have an expansive effect on banking credits and bank deposits. I know we are going to see a vast industrial expansion. It isn't going to be 100 per cent employment; it is going to be 120 per cent employment. There will be need not only for every man who worked before; there will be need for all the men and women. The unskilled worker will step into the place of the skilled worker, and women will be called upon to take a greater place in industry. It is going to mean the greatest wage fund that was ever paid out."

"That is the verdict of Frank A. Vanderlip, head of America's largest national bank."

AN ANSWER ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

There are American citizens who have questioned the advisability of the U. S. fighting with England as an ally, especially in view of the history of the relations between the two countries. No better answer could be given these men than the words of Thomas Jefferson, written in 1823, when he was consulted by President Monroe about the advisability of fighting by the side of a country which the U. S. had previously been fighting against. This statement of Jefferson's is reprinted in a current weekly and runs as follows:

"Great Britain is the nation which can do us the most harm of any one, or all on earth and with her on our side we need not fear the whole world. With her then, we should most sedulously cherish a cordial friendship; and nothing would tend more to knit our affections than to be fighting once more, side by side, in the same cause. Not that I would purchase even her amity at the price of taking part in her wars. But the war in which the present proposition might engage us, should that be its consequence, is not her war, but ours. Its object is to introduce and establish the American system, of keeping out of our land all foreign powers, of never permitting those of Europe to intermeddle with the affairs of our nation. It is to maintain our own principle, not to depart from it. And if, to facilitate this, we can effect a division in the body of the European powers, and draw over to our side its most powerful member, surely we should do it. Nor is the occasion to be slighted which this proposition offers, of declaring our protest against the atrocious violations of the rights of nations, by the interference of any one in the internal affairs of another."

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES

Cap'n Paul Jones was a Britisher born; he hailed from the Solway shore. But he struck a snag with his folks at home, as many have done before: He shook the old land's dust from his feet, and he gave her a piece of his mind. And he never knew that he'd somehow left a bit of his heart behind.

Cap'n Paul Jones was a skipper of fame, and a darned good sailorman, too. And a bit of a bucko, as I've heard tell, in the way he handled his crew: He learned 'em to drill, and he learned 'em to shoot, and to jump at the word of command. The same as he knew how they learned 'em to do in the ships of his native land.

Cap'n Paul Jones was a Britisher born, but he changed his flag and his name. In his "Ranger" frigate he led us a dance, but we honor him all the same;

We used to call him a pirate then, for he certainly wasn't our friend. But he sailed and he fought as a Britisher should, which is what matters most in the end.

Cap'n Paul Jones was a Britisher born, which is why, now the time is come,

He knows the tug of the Solway tide and the rattle of Drake's old drum; He is back to the sea in the old, old way, a sailor man smart and bold.

And the flag of the "Ranger" is flying today by the flag that she fought off old.

THE ATLANTA FIRE

Tuesday, July 24, the question of voting $17,000 in bonds for the motorization of the fire department will be submitted to the voters of Jacksonville. Any one who is enough interested in the welfare of his city and the protection of his own property and who will investigate the facts, will speedily form the opinion that motorization is needed and desirable. To put the proposed change in effect means both economy and efficiency. It will mean that present or lower rates of insurance can be maintained. It will mean equal protection for property in all parts of the city. It will mean the adoption of equipment which fire insurance companies declare the most desirable.

Immediately following the great fire in Atlanta May 21, which resulted in the destruction of five million dollars' worth of property, a committee on fire prevention of the national board of fire underwriters dispatched one of its most experienced engineers to the stricken city in order to make a close study of the characteristics of the fire, the causes to which it was due and the lessons which might be deduced from it. This report sets forth that the disaster was essentially a shingle roof conflagration and that the fire department rendered excellent service, although handicapped by lack of motor apparatus, insufficient reserve supply of hose and unpaved streets at certain points.

A vote for the bonds at the city election here will mean that there will not be "a lack of motor apparatus or an insufficient reserve supply of hose." Fortunately the number of unpaved streets and the repairing of street pavements in bad condition is already well under way.

CROP FORECAST

Last winter the government crop experts gave out most discouraging reports for the 1917 wheat crop. According to these experts the yield of winter wheat would be far below normal and it was indicated that vast acreages would be plowed under and the ground used for other crops. In truth vast areas were plowed up and other areas left standing gave little promise of profit to the grower or of helping out the general predicted shortage. But the last report of these experts is in very different vein and they predict that the wheat crop of the country will be the biggest that the country has ever seen.

The reports show that many fields which in the spring were counted as almost worthless are turning out well and will give crop returns well up to the average of former years. Considering the early prophecies and the present facts, it is not surprising that many are questioning the value of early crop forecasts. Sometimes, it must be admitted, these forecasts are really detrimental, occasioning as they do market conditions that are not justified by the facts. The recent report of the wheat crop and the estimate of other grain crops contains much for encouragement and gives the hope that the U. S. will not only have enough for well needed at home consumption, but can also provide for the actual needs of the allies.

Just now the average consumer is looking for the day when the price of flour will take a drop that will keep it proportionate with the price of wheat. That drop is not likely to come until the interests that control the flour mills of the country have disposed of the products they purchased on the higher market levels of a few months since.

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASON

GERMAN VICTORIES.

The German hosts are slowly closing, retreating inch by inch; positions of their careful choosing, and which they thought a cinch, have from their warriors been wrested, by allied sword and gun; by Haig Pop Hindenberg's been bested, he'll soon be on the run. Yet Kaiser Bill is busy spinning, whenever he has the chance, tall yarns of how his men are winning, among the hills of France. The more the Kaiser's men are beaten, the more he waves his hat. "Just watch our masterly retreat," he yells; "get wise to that! Such strategy's beyond all praising, the foe it must confound; by strokes of genius amazing, we've lost ten miles of ground!" How long will patient Germans swallow the Kaiser's fairy tale, while they strive on, with stomachs hollow, to raise for Bill more kale? Upon his word they have been leaning, and never found it right. He told them that his submerging would shortly end the fight. He told them Hindenberg would quickly back Britain off the scene; he told them his so thin and sickly they'd fool no horse marine. With Bill defeat's a thing of glory, and soup becomes champagne; how long will Germans stand his story, and still be counted sane?

THIS DATE IN HISTORY

BUSINESS WOMEN

MOBILIZE FOR WAR
Chicago, Ill., July 12.—The organization of a national association of business women, which will have none of the social frills associated with the ordinary women's club but will exist for the sole purpose of aiding in a solution of the serious problems that will confront the women of America during and after the war, is the aim of a notable convention of business women which assembled in this city today.

The Woman's Association of Commerce, a body organized here five years ago by a group of women who realized that conventional club life is not sufficient for the needs of modern women, is the sponsor for the present movement. Nearly 300 delegates, including women from all sections of the country who have attained success in various lines of business and in numerous professions, have responded to the call for the convention. The gathering will continue thru the remainder of the week. In addition to the regular business sessions, a leading feature of the program will be a mammoth open air pageant, to be held tomorrow evening at the American league baseball park. More than one thousand women will take part in the presentation of scenes portraying the big part that has been taken by women in American history.

DEMAND ABOLITION OF INDIAN BUREAU

BEMIDJI, Minn., July 12.—The federal council of the Minnesota Chippewas now in annual session here, today adopted a resolution demanding the immediate abolition of the Indian bureau on the ground that it is composed of "cheap, incompetent and immoral men" who are responsible for the deplorable and disgraceful condition obtaining on every Indian reservation. HEAD OF E. ST. LOUIS
POLICE BOARD RESIGNS

Action Follows Request That
All Three Members Quit

Attitude of Other Members Not Known—Many Union Members
Testify That Negroes Made Life
Intolerable for White Men.

BULLETIN

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 12.—Mayor Mollman declined to say what had been decided tonight in a secret session in his office of city officials concerning complaints made against the police board charging laxness during the recent race rioting. Commissioners Shean and Schmitt asserted they had not resigned. The president of the board, Wallace Watkins, reiterated his declaration made earlier that he quit his post, denying, however, that his resignation had been asked. Prior to the conference, Mayor Mollman talked with Brigadier General Hill who is in command of the troops now patrolling the city. The Brigadier General told a newspaper man that a thorough search of "strategic points" where negroes were said to have stored fire arms and ammunition in the last few days had failed to uncover any of the arms.

East St. Louis, July 12.—Wallace C. Watkins, president of the East St. Louis Board of Police commissioners, has resigned. It was announced tonight following a request by Mayor Mollman that all three members of the board resign on account of many changes of inefficiency brought against them in connection with their handling of the recent race rioting. The other members of the board are Nelson Schein and William Schmitt.

The attitude of Schein and Schmitt is not known but they are said to have announced that they were undecided. Mayor Mollman called a meeting of city officials in his office tonight and it is expected that the question of a new police board will be decided there.

Many members of unions testified before the session of the committee of one hundred during the afternoon that negroes made life intolerable for working white men, but denied that they knew anything concerning the instigation of the rioting. Some of them charged that negroes habitually went armed with arms and razors.

Reports emanating from the secret sessions of the coroner's inquest indicated that the inquiry would be ended at noon tomorrow. From what newspapermen can learn about ten white men will be charged with murder and probably twenty white men charged with assault with intent to kill. The number to be held on a charge of arson was placed at five.

Sessions of the grand jury will open in Belleville next Monday in charge of Assistant Attorney General Middlekauff.

Brigadier General Hill will have charge of the military board of inquiry which is to meet in East St. Louis by direction of Governor Lowden.

Bloodhounds following a trial from the burned house are alleged to have gone to Mrs. Borland's home and the police say she confessed that she set the fire when confronted with the charge. In making the confession it is said she implicated the minister who gave bond when arrested.

ASKS VERIFICATION OF CENSUS ESTIMATE

Governor Lowden Telegraphs to War Department at Washington.

Springfield, Ill., July 12.—Governor Frank O. Lowden today telegraphed to the war department at Washington asking for a verification of the revised census estimate of the state announced yesterday as based on the registration figures under the selective draft law.

According to the estimate the population of Illinois is given at 7,227,952, which is more than a million over the former estimate sent to Adjutant General Frank S. Dickson nearly two months ago. The drafting in this state, according to the new figures, will result in the calling of between 12,000 and 15,000 more men than had been anticipated, the majority of whom would come from Chicago.

The message to Washington asks the war department to explain the figures and if the estimate stands the state's increased quota will be made in accordance to the new figures.

The state's original quota was fixed on a basis of a population of 6,000,000. The new estimate gives Chicago's population at 3,639,957 and downstate cities are also given credit for larger populations, which means that larger contingents will be called from the respective localities.

PRESIDENT SETTLES SHIPPING CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The controversy over the government's shipping program was settled by President Wilson today by directing the emergency fleet corporation of which Major General Goethals is manager to take charge of construction and by authorizing the shipping board to permit the vessels after they are built and to requisition and operate tonnage now on the seas.

The president, by dividing the powers conferred on him by congress cleared the way for an immediate speeding up of construction. General Goethals will commandeer at once the contracts for most of the two million tons of ships building in American yards and will put on double and triple labor shifts to hurry their completion.

ELKS DISPLAY PATRIOTISM.

Boston, Mass., July 12.—This was the biggest day of the week for the national convention and reunion of the Elks' national convence. Because set apart for the parade, which is always the big spectacular feature of the Elks' national convence. Because of the war the leaders of the order decided to eliminate the parade this year and donate the money that would have been spent on decorations and costumes to various war relief funds. In place of the parade a mammoth patriotic program was arranged for the day, with Boston Common serving as the center of activities. The program opened with a procession that included virtually all of the military and naval forces of the United States now quartered in Boston and vicinity. During the afternoon there were exhibition drills by the military and naval units and the Elks Drill Corps of Denver. There was also a program of speech-making, with Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois as the chief orator.

ARMY OFFICERS CAREER LESS ATTRACTIVE.

Stockholm, Sweden, July — The new Year Book for the Swedish Army shows that the career of army officer is becoming steadily less attractive. The number of resignations has increased, and the number of officer aspirants has decreased, the change being particularly noticeable during the war years. In 1914 there were still nine supernumerary officers on the rolls. There is now a deficit of 115, of which 82 unfilled commissions are in the infantry and 32 in the cavalry.

Several reasons for the decreasing attractiveness of the officer's career are given by military critics. One is economic, the cost of living having increased so much more rapidly than the pay of officers that they are compelled to seek more lucrative professions. The anti-militaristic agitation of the last few years also is credited with a part of the responsibility for the change. Other factors combine also to bring about a situation which is causing uneasiness in conservative circles.

FEDERAL CHILD LABOR LAW PROVISIONS

Tentative Draft of Proposed Measure Made Public.

Washington, July 12.—Regulations for carrying out the provisions of the federal child-labor law have been drafted in tentative form and a hearing at which producers, manufacturers, dealers and others interested are invited to discuss them will be held in the office of the assistant secretary of labor at Washington, July 24 at 10 a. m.

The regulations are concerned with proof of age, the conditions under which state employment certificates will be accepted by the federal authorities, the form of the producer's guaranty by which a dealer can protect himself from prosecution, and other details of administration.

The child labor law becomes effective on September 1 and applies to establishments whose products are shipped in interstate commerce the following restrictions: No child under 16 can legally be employed in any mine or quarry at any time; no child under 14 can legally be employed at any time and no child under 16 more than 8 hours in any workday, more than 6 days in any week, or before 6 a. m. or after 7 p. m. in any mill, cannery, workshop, factory, or manufacturing establishment.

Copies of the tentative regulations under which these provisions will be enforced can be secured from the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. and definite suggestions and criticisms of the regulations in writing are invited from those who can not attend the hearing.

NORTHWESTERN ROWING REGATTA

Duluth, Minn., July 12.—Visiting crews from many points are here for the opening tomorrow of the Northwestern International Regatta. More than ordinary interest is manifested in the regatta this year, since it will be the only representative event of its kind to be held anywhere in the country. In addition to the crews from the middle west there promises to be a good representation from other sections. New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Springfield have been invited to send their best oarsmen and ample provision has been made for the expenses of the competitors. The regatta program will extend over two days, with the main events to be contested Saturday. The net proceeds will be donated to the American Red Cross.

ENTIRE STEEL OUTPUT TO BE MADE AVAILABLE

Costs to Be Determined After Completion of Steel Investigation Now Being Made by the Federal Trade Commission.

Washington, July 12. — Conferences between government officials and representatives of the steel industry, concerning the nation's steel requirements during the war and prices to be paid by the government, ended today in an understanding, announced by Secretary Baker that the country's entire steel output will be made available at reasonable costs to be determined after completion of the steel investigation now being made by the federal trade commission.

Prices will be fixed, it was announced, to insure reasonable profits and with regard for expanding needs of the steel industry, the government representatives made it clear that orders will be distributed over the entire iron and steel industry so that no group may receive an unfair share.

The agreement coming immediately after a statement by President Wilson of his views on the price question was taken as indicating the policy the government will pursue toward business during the war. Government officials it is known favor a system insuring the fullest co-operation of industry and desire that arrangement will be made whereby it will become unnecessary to commandeer production. Every effort will be made it is declared to arrive at price agreements which will give the government supplies at costs reasonable for both the seller and purchaser. The services of the trade commission have been called on for determining production costs of most of the basic materials used by the government and its figures will be used as a guide.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

Another step in the outflanking of the Austro-German armies protecting Lemberg on the east has been achieved by the Russians, who have crossed the river Lomnica and captured Kalusz. Beyond the Lomnica and south of Dniester west of Halicz, General orloffs advance continues.

When Russians occupied Kalusz after forcing a passage of the Lomnica they had advanced twenty miles northwestward from Stanislaw in five days. In the same time the eighth Russian army took Halicz and crossed the Dniester there and began an advance between Stanislaw and Bohorodzyan. A great wedge has been torn in the Austro-German line south of the Dniester, and the army headquarters in that region was occupied in the making of Kalusz.

The taking of Halicz on Tuesday was a threat against the Austro-German line northward thru Brzezany, along the Zlota-Lipa and the crossing of the Lomnica, and an advance beyond is a blow to the security of the line protecting Lemberg. Should the Russian advance west of Stanislaw continue unchecked, and should large Russian forces be thrown across the Dniester in the region of Halicz the Zlota Lipa line, unbroken by the Russian onslaught of July 1 would be turned, making a general retirement inevitable.

On the southern end of the Stanislaw front, which is the foothills of the Carpathians, the Russians are not advancing as rapidly as on the northern end. The enemy is taking advantage of the hilly country and has checked momentarily attacks west of Bohorodzyan.

In France the British have driven off German raiding parties near the Belgian coast and west of Quent, southeast of Arras. The actual activity on this part of the front has been more pronounced and ten German airplanes were driven down, six out of control, by British aircraft, three of whom failed to return to their base. Behind the German line near the coast of Flanders, British aircraft have attacked military objects, causing fires and explosions.

Dr. von Reibman-Holweg, the imperial German chancellor, has signed in German newspapers say, has acted on the resignation. Other reports are to the effect that the entire government will resign with the chancellor, and that strong demands are being made that the government declare its stand concerning peace and internal reforms. The crown council has met again, this time with the German crown prince in attendance and an imperial proclamation is looked for in some quarters.

tin capsules and placed in a large glass vessels to be removed out at a time by the official designated to do that work.

May Amalgamate Small Districts

The number of Capsules which would be necessary would be equal of course to the total in the largest district. Thus, under the present arrangement seven thousand numbers would have to be drawn. Amalgamation of smaller districts and divisions of the large ones may be decided upon however to reduce the variations. Information so far available indicated that the drawing will work out in this way. There are 4,550 exemption districts. When the first number is drawn—say No. 10—it will be recorded as No. 1, with the serial number (TEN) following. The record would show that the men whose cards bear the serial No. 10 in each of 4,550 exemption districts would be first to appear before the exemption boards.

Presumably the announcement made at the drawing would be No. 1, Serial No. 10.

It is assumed that when the drawing is complete the government will compute how many men are represented by No. 1, in the drawing and by the numbers immediately succeeding and then issue an order for enough to report to make the total desired for the first army. For instance, the first call might be for No. 1 to 100 in all districts. When the first exemption came in each district No. 101 would be called, and so on.

To prevent embarrassment among those who are exempt the war department has decided to give with each exemption certificate a bronze badge bearing the inscription "exempted—U. S." The design for this badge has been approved by Secretary Baker and a number already are in process of manufacture. It is intended to prevent those exempted from any suspicion of being slackers.

The law specifies that exemptions are not permanent unless the cause for which they are granted is permanent. For instance, if a man should be exempted on the first call because of a dependent relative and that relative should die or become self-supporting before the second call the registrant would be liable for service under the second call. It will be the duty of the exemption boards to keep watch of such cases and recall men who have been passed over once, but whose status may have been changed before the second call is made.

CORN AT HIGH PRICES.

The Franklin Times mentions a number of farmers in the Franklin community who have sold corn at from $1.75 upward. The list includes M. A. VanWinkle, Arthur VanWinkle, J. M. Hart, John Brown, Anton Bergsneider, H. Wilcox, Frank Brittenstein and Joseph Ridder.

Cash corn in the St. Louis market yesterday sold at $1.95. Prices may go higher today but it is expected that after Saturday there will be lower figures as the proposed liquor restriction bill provides for taking over purchases made by distillers prior to July 15.

World about two weeks ago. Since then according to officials, scores of strange men have been in Bisbee who are alleged to have prevented miners from returning to work. Plans for the roundup materialized last night.

Early this morning bands of citizens began to assemble, those not already armed being given rifles and revolvers with instructions to "shoot only in self defense."

At six o'clock special newspaper editions appeared with a proclamation by Sheriff Wheeler ordering women and children to keep off the streets and instructing deputies to arrest on "charges of vagrancy, treason and being disturbers of the peace" all those strange men who have congregated here for the purpose of harassing all men who desire to pursue their daily toil.

Herded Men Into Groups.

Simultaneously five bands of armed citizens appeared as if by magic. In an hour every strange man or one who could not give a clear account of himself was "herded into groups." Finally they were marched to the railway station, under the menace of rifles leveled at them from all sides. A baseball park on the outskirts served as a corral which armed citizens surrounded while other armed citizens scoured the town for other strangers. When the special train of cattle cars was ready at noon the strangers were ordered to enter and the train pulled out amid cheers and jeers.

For the remainder of the day the armed citizens continued their search for strangers. Tonight hundreds of them still bearing arms, are patrolling the streets.

Two Men are Killed.

Victims of today's activities were Orson P. McKee, a member of the Citizens' Protective League and shift boss at one of the Copper Queen Mines and James Brew, a former employee of the Denn Mine, which closed down the first day of the strike. McKee was killed when Brew fired thru the door of his room at McKee and several other men, who were rounding up I. W. W. sympathizers. McKee, it is said was unarmed. Brew fired several more shots and then stepped out of his room. Three of McKee's companions fired at him and he fell beside his victim, dying five minutes later.

A special train carrying members of the Industrial Workers of the World out of this district arrived in Columbus, N. M., at 9:10 this evening according to a dispatch received here. The dispatch said the military authorities at Columbus refused to have anything to do with the matter and turned the men loose. The guards who accompanied the train were expected to return here in the morning and may be accompanied by many of those who were deported today.

Says Attorney General Investigating.
Chicago, July 12.—W. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the Industrial Workers of the World tonight asserted that the attorney general of the United States is investigating what he termed a "series of outrages against the I. W. W." He branded as false the rumors that German influence and German money are behind the copper mine strikes at Bisbee, Ariz., Butte, Mont., and elsewhere in the west.

"The deportations will not affect the general situation," he said. "They cannot mine copper with machine guns or dig it with bayonets." "Senator Thomas of Colorado, recently made the statement that German influences were behind our movement. It is not German influence but simply an effort to get living wages and just working conditions for our miners that is behind the strikes."

"The strike at Bisbee is, of course, in sympathy with the strike at Butte, Montana, both were called by the metal miners industrial union, a component part of the I. W. W."

"There is no attempt, however, to close the copper mines of the United States just because we are at war."

No Connection Between Efforts.
"There is no connection between the I. W. W. efforts in the harvest field situation and the mine strikes so far as I know. The mine strikes would have come at this time, war or no war. The cost of living has gone up and the demands were necessary."

Mr. Haywood called attention to the deportations of I. W. W. mem-

AGRICULTURE TAUGHT IN VAST NUMBER OF SCHOOLS

Thousands of Pupils Enroll for This Work—The Development of Past Decade.

At the convention of the National Educational association in Portland Thursday an address of unusual interest was made by H. N. Goodard of Madison, Wis. His theme was "Results achieved in Secondary Agriculture and Methods Pursued in Actual Practice." He said in part:

Secondary agriculture has had a remarkable development in the last decade. While in 1911 there were only 19 high schools teaching agriculture, reports show 4663 such schools with over 90,000 pupils. There are now 63 special secondary schools of agriculture with 6391 pupils. State aid is given to high school agricultural departments in about 15 states.

Some leaders insist upon special vocational schools as necessary for this work and these have been established in several states. However, there has been a growing tendency to regard the public high schools as best fitted to develop such work. Special schools tend to set up a double system of education which should be opposed in the secondary schools. Academic or general training and vocational or special education tend to strengthen each other when organized in the same school for the same pupils. Democracy demands a unified plan of universal education.

In secondary agriculture several things have come to be fairly well agreed upon as to the character of the work. As the vocational view has gained favor, the project has come to be demanded as the most essential feature. Successful project work demands that the agricultural teacher should be employed for an eleven months year. There has also been an increasing demand that teachers of this work should have the equivalent of a four-years' agricultural college course with adequate professional training. Twelve states now require this. There is further a tendency to demand that pupils shall give approximately half of their time to distinctly vocational work.

Two classes of Projects. Two classes of projects have developed—school or group projects and home or individual projects. The home project is more essential but this is greatly stimulated by the school project. The school plot is a valuable school project. It should not, however, be undertaken without certainty of good summer care and it should not be made too large. Thirty-eight out of ninety departments in Wisconsin operated school plots last year. The school farm offers many difficulties and should not usually be undertaken in high school departments.

Among successful school projects, aside from the school plot, are the following: steer fattening, keeping dairy cows, cow testing, poultry work, shop work and construction of all kinds of farm buildings. The school plot should be used for crop production, demonstrations, illustrative material and out-of-door experiments.

Home projects have included practically every phase of farm practice that can be carried out on the home farm or garden.

Annual School Fair Important. Exhibits and contests have been very generally carried out in connection with rounding up the projects. A state stock judging contest has become an annual event in Wisconsin. Young People's Agricultural Departments are maintained in several state fairs, including Wisconsin and Minnesota. The annual school fair is most important of all.

Considerable extension work has been carried on but experience has shown it must be very tactfully done. It is best to develop this work first thru the practical work of the pupils in school. Systematic class-room instruction and teaching in the laboratory and the field are being linked up with the practical work.

There is a great need of improvement in all the lines, but this work in the secondary schools is nevertheless doing more to help in the rural problem than perhaps any other agency.

FOUR DROWNED AS RESULT OF STRANGE AUTO ACCIDENT

The recent drowning of George Houghtlin and family of Jerseyville was the result of an out of the ordinary auto accident, is related as follows in the current White Hall Republican:

Mr. and Mrs. Houghtlin and their four-year-old son, Leslie, and their guest, Miss Rena Johnson, of Los Angeles, California, had been visiting relatives in Calhoun county, and on their return home late in the evening, Mr. Houghtlin drove his car onto the ferry at Hardin, stopped the car but left engine running. The ferryman requested Mr. Houghtlin to move his car forward a little to make room for another car. In doing so, it is reported, he put his foot on the wrong lever and gave the machine too much gas, causing the car to lunge forward with such rapidity and power that the guard rail of the ferry was broken allowing the car and occupants to plunge into ten feet of water. All four of them were drowned. The body of Mrs. Houghtlin was recovered a few minutes after the accident, those of her husband and son next morning, but that of Miss Johnson was not recovered for two or three days.

BUSINESS TURNING TOWARD CASH BASIS

Wholesaler Sends Letter to Patrons Calling Attention to Changed Conditions.

A Bloomington wholesale grocer has sent the following letter to patrons relative to business conditions and it contains some interesting points. The letter was printed in the Pantagraph.

To Our Customers: "Due to the unusual conditions existing at this time we make the following changes in our business policies, to become effective July 15th.

All prices quoted by our salesmen are subject to any increase in freight rates or to any tax, of any kind, that may affect articles before they are shipped.

Owing to exceeding high prices it is costing about 63 per cent more to do business than in former years. There seems to be a very general tendency thruout the country toward a cash basis. The consensus of opinion seems to be that the business which will weather the storm, must be conducted along lines of a quick turnover. In order to keep a well balanced stock on hand at this time we have to tie up nearly twice as much money in merchandise as formerly."

This will give our readers and the trading public of this community an insight to the demands now being made upon retailers to practically pay cash for merchandise, and if they demand cash from their customers, no blame can be placed upon them. Promises to pay does not enable the local dealer to meet his bills—it is the actual cash that satisfies the wholesale dealers and unless the local dealer has an unlimited amount of capital with which to carry accounts, he must rely on the cash from his customers to maintain his business.

Not only ours—but every local community needs a better system of co-operation between the local buyers and the local merchants. It is the local buyers who makes it possible for the local merchant to exist and earn an honest livelihood, and it is the local merchants who affords conveniences to the local buyers that better their local condition. It is the enterprise of the local merchant that makes the farm lands nearer to a good town worth more than the farm lands more distantly located—it is the enterprise of the local merchants that makes our city properties enhance in value. The local merchants owe much to the local and rural community for their existence and the rural and local community owe many fold to the honest local merchant for the position he occupies in their midst.

In a time like this when we must help the world and our own nation, we should place ourselves in a better position to do so by local co-operation.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY WILL CLOSE OUR GREAT MIDSUMMER PROFIT SHARING SALE. YOU WILL FIND MANY ARTICLES ON SALE THAT YOU HAVE NOT SEEN—THIS WILL BE YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY TO SECURE MUCH WANTED MERCHANDISE AT LESS THAN WHOLESALE PRICES. BRING THE CASH AND COME IN THE FORENOON.

NERVE TESTS FOR MEN IN DRAFT LISTS

No Shamming Will go for Alienists Will Carefully Examine Men Who Seem to Have Nerve Troubles.

Can you stand on one foot, with your eyes closed, for one minute?

If you can your nerves are steady enough to go to the trenches and fight for democracy. But if you fall over on the floor the army neurologists will take you in hand. Also if your hand trembles if held at arm's length your nerves are not steady enough to go into battle. Or if the pupils of your eyes are continuously dilated you are a subject for the neuro-psychiatric army hospital.

This information is published for the benefit of the young men who are to be drafted within a few days into the army. But no shamming goes, for the doctors who will be in charge of these neuro-psychiatric hospitals are experts in detecting nervous and mental diseases. All of which was explained today at the session of the Alienists and Neurologists of America at the Hotel LaSalle, Chicago, by Dr. L. Vernon Briggs of 64 Beacon street, Boston.

Danger in Nervous Disorders Dr. Briggs is a member of the national committee to furnish physicians for the neuro-psychiatric units for the United States Army base hospitals in France and examiners for the camps for enlisted men in the United States, to investigate the nervous condition of all the troops going into battle. Dr. Briggs explained that such units at the base hospitals already had been established by Canada, as that country had discovered that thirteen men out of every thousand sent to France became insane because of nervous disorders and had to be shipped back home.

The "reflexes" obtained by the expert tests on the enlisted men show, he said, the necessity of treatment before sending the men into the trenches. Without some treatment, he explained, such men would have to be sent back home at an enormous expense to the government. By putting these nervously sick men to bed, giving them proper bath treatment and care in the neuro-psychiatric hospitals, they are able shortly to stand the strain of battle without becoming mentally affected.

Need for Expert Work Only an expert in nervous troubles, Dr. Briggs said, is able to detect a condition which might lead to insanity in the trenches, as virtually all of these men are sufficiently normal to pass the regular army physician's examinations.

Dr. Briggs added, by way of parenthesis, that all the drafted men found nervously deficient by the army neuro-psychiatric experts will not be discharged from the army. They will be kept in the hospitals until their nerves are made strong enough to withstand the shock of battle.

The neuro-psychiatric hospital units of the army are to be each equipped with thirty beds. The work is in charge of the committee of which Major Pearce Bailey is the head, working directly under United States Surgeon General William C. Gorgas. Dr. Briggs hopes, while attending the sessions of the Alienists and Neurologists of America in Chicago this week to obtain at least forty physicians for this branch of the United States Army work. Dr. Thomas W. Salmon of New York City also is interested in the work of this committee.

Among those on today's program of the neurologists are Dr. Gordon S. Mundie of the Royal British Hospital, Montreal, Canada, and Captain J. Elliott Royer of Chicago. Captain Royer has spent a year with the neurological service of the British army.

SEC. LANE ANALYZES COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

DESCRIBES RELATION OF BUSINESS MEN TO THE GOVERNMENT

Secretary Answers Talk in Congress and Elsewhere Suggesting That Members of the Council are in Position to Make Contracts With Themselves

Washington, July 12.—The relation of business men to the government was described today by Franklin Lane, secretary of the interior, and one of the six cabinet members who compose the Council of National Defense. Answering talk in Congress and elsewhere suggesting that members of the Council are in position to make contracts with themselves and thus derive personal profit from the war, Mr. Lane said the business men composing the advisory commission have no control over contracts and in fact give to the government infinitely more than they receive. Analyzing the organization further, Mr. Lane gave high praise to the business men, experts in their several fields of industry, who comprise the many committees on supplies, including raw materials of all kinds and manufactures.

Gives Statement to Associated Press
The statement was given to the Associated Press as the result of inquiries concerning recent criticism of the commission and a persistent report that re-organization of the council is imminent. The response was characteristically frank from the opening question which bore on the possibility of cabinet members constituting the council making any personal profit out of contracts.

"We have nothing to sell," he said. "When it is considered that the council of national defense consists of Secretary Baker, a lawyer, Secretary Daniels, an editor; Secretary Lane, a lawyer; Secretary Houston, a college president; Secretary Redfield, a retired business man; Secretary Wilson, a labor union official—you will realize that there is not much chance for that charge being true."

"No, nobody thinks that we are dealing with ourselves. The confusion has come about because of the peculiar organization of the Council. Get into your head one or two facts and you will see how this confusion has arisen. The Council of National Defense buys nothing. That body was created by Congress as a measure of preparedness to mobilize resources—a sort of stock-taking body. If we came to war what did we have in the way of resources to make war with? That was the idea. It is not a war council, in the English sense, which can direct policies. The president is our war council. It is not a purchasing board because there is not a man on it who can buy anything excepting the secretaries of war and navy, and the council cannot direct them what to buy.

Very Important Board

"But it is a very important board nevertheless," it is supposed to know just what the government needs for the carrying on of the war and just where that can be had. Regard its make-up and you will see that. The secretaries of war and navy know what the army and navy need. The secretary of the interior, who has the geological survey and the bureau of mines under him, is supposed to know what minerals this country produces and how they can be had. The secretary of agriculture knows what the food supply is and how it may be stimulated. The secretary of commerce knows what he can get abroad and what we manufacture here. And the secretary of labor is in touch with the great primary force essential to all production.

"But when Congress provided for this council it created a supplemental body which is sometimes confused with the Council itself, which is called the advisory commission, and these are real business men. They are nominated to the President by the Council and appointed by him. These gentlemen donate their services and were chosen because they were specialists, successful specialists. I doubt if any country in Europe could produce a finer body."

Reviews Business Achievements

Mr. Lane reviewed briefly the achievements in the business world of those who comprise the advisory commission.

"The function of these gentlemen," he said, "is to advise the Council of National Defense. They make no contracts. They have no executive or administrative power."

"That is the full legal machinery—a council of cabinet officers complemented by an advisory commission of business men, Congress created both bodies."

The secretary's attention was directed to the fact that much of the criticism had been aimed at the committees of business men who advised the council respecting tin, copper, lumber and other subjects requiring technical knowledge.

"What part do these men play?" he was asked.

"That is a simple story. When the war came we had card indexes and reports by the carload. But these could not be converted into guns and cantonments and aeroplanes. We had to move quickly. So the council sent for the men who had been in Europe and knew what had been done in France and England and gained the benefit of their experience. We listened for days to the purchasing agents and the reports of all the allied countries. They talked of commandeering all the primary resources of the country, the ore and the foods and the industrial plants. They told of the contracts they had made and the methods they had taken for paying for what they got."

Saw Size of Task at Once

"It was a thrilling tale of a man's organizing skill, his quickness to adjust himself to conditions. We heard labor union men from the other side, and manufacturers. And then we called in the representatives of the army and navy and asked them what they had on hand and what they needed. We saw at once the size of the task. There never was one like it."

"Undismayed we determined on a start and a quick start. Now if you wanted to know what lumber you could secure at once for building houses for a million men, what would you do? Or if you wanted copper or steel the country had or for ten thousand cannon? You would, of course, call together the men who knew how much lumber or copper or steel the country had or could produce. And if you wanted coal for the industries or oil for submarines, would you ignore the men who produce these things and deal with them at long range, as if they were alien enemies? Of course not. You would call them to your side. Well, that is what the advisory commission told us we should do—get the business men of the country around the table to help out. And, we did."

Roughly Classified Goods

"We roughly classified our goods and told the members of the advisory commission to recommend to us the men they thought were foremost in these lines of industry. And these men we turned into committees. It gave them standing to be organized. It made them properly feel that they were in the business of fighting Germany. Their boys were going to the trenches and they were anxious to do their bit. These men who made up these committees came down here for the war—and they came down to help us—do you understand. And they have helped us. They have worked day and night and paid their own way, crowded a half dozen in a room, and annoyed all the time because they couldn't satisfy their good strong Yankee executive instinct by doing things instead of advising how they could be done. They made no contracts; they made no decisions. The contracts and the decisions were made by the only people who had the legal power, the secretaries of war and navy."

"But these committees sat with the captains and colonels and admirals and told them how they, the industrial managers, would go about this unprecedented task if it was up to them—how they would build cities with water works and sewers and electric lights and all complete for a million men in three months—how they would induce our great manufacturing plants to give up their trades and go into the business of making airships in a country that invented the aeroplane and yet hasn't a capacity of 500 a year—how they would get lumber without bidding the market up."

Has Looked Up All Records

"I have heard that some of these men were not as disinterested as they might be; that they wanted to make money. That wouldn't be unnatural if it was true. However, I have looked up all the rumors that have come to my attention and found them to be baseless, mere flings by the unsuccessful. Of course, all can't be satisfied, and where things are done quickly there must be some mistakes. I honor these men and I hope that Congress or some other authority will authorize for them an emblem similar to that given in Canada and elsewhere showing that those men are in national service."

"We can't make war without fervor and enthusiasm any more than we can run a revival meeting without them. There is no such thing as a cold-blooded Democracy, and a Democracy can't make war cold-bloodedly. There is no passion that is mainly that we should not use—pride, rivalry, the gang-spirit, love of humanity, love of country. And the more proud, or vain men are of working for the country the better work we will get. These committees have been, are, and will continue to be invaluable to the conduct of this war. In England they have twenty times as many as we have."

Mr. Lane did not contend that the organization as created was wholly satisfactory.

Not Wholly Satisfactory

"No, it is not," he replied, when asked the direct question. "It is an emergency organization. But it is along the right line. The Council is planning a re-organization, which is now, I believe, up to the president, under which there will be greater consolidation and more direct control. Under our constitution the president is the commander-in-chief of the army and navy. He is the real head of our council. We recommend to him. He is the ultimate deciding and directing force."

When asked what is to prevent them from recommending favors to themselves in the form of high prices, Mr. Lane said:

"Three things—perhaps more. First, patriotism. There is a small percentage of American business men who would rob a church, or an orphanage, but the business is negligible. Our business men come from the same stock as the rest of us and have got as high standards as any other class. And, they have a bit more vision than most of us, because they have broader experience. The theory to work upon with the business man is the thing to use with the boy, that he is a patriot."

"So long as he was making money out of foreigners this theory was not usable. For business is war. That was the theory we have all been raised on. We learned it from Adam Smith and Ricardo and Mill and Spencer. Only recently have we come to see that this theory must have its modifications. The abused socialists have been largely responsible for teaching us where we went to if we logically carried out the theory of unlimited competition. So the business men took all the traffic would bear from the Allies as they did from the public. But, when this country is threatened, when our national life is at stake, the making of money becomes secondary. This is not merely idealism or theory. It is fact and the business man knows it. So I say the first call upon the business man is the patriotic call. I took a man from a thirty thousand dollar place and put him to work at $2,500 by telling him that he had a call to the colors. Sentiment is not a dead thing. The railroad men at the time of the threatened national strike yielded to it, so did the coal men when they volunteered to cut their prices over thirty per cent."

Like To Work Together
"Then there is the gang spirit. Men are like boys in this, too, they like to work together, whether for good or otherwise. The whole theory of the law of supply and demand is set aside at such a time. Just a little co-operation—that's the effect of the gang spirit—and a little direction, and you have nine-tenths of the business men doing exactly what you wish them to do."

"But, the other tenth?"
"Yes, that wicked twelfth juror must be reckoned with. And for him there are two medicines: First, the gang-spirit applied by his fellows and then if that does not effect a cure then there must be the strong hand—for we need his output and he must be made to play the game even if he is not willing. This problem of getting reasonable prices, which is the one England and Europe have had to meet and which should not be permitted to hold back our work, may be met then in three ways:

"By the appeal to patriotism; if this fails by the fixing of prices; then if no practicable way is found to do this, by commandeering the resource, industry or plant. Co-operation first, coercion by price fixing second, command of plant third. This is the practical program."

Want Effective Thing

"For this war must be won and the last ton of ore, the last pound of steel, the last bale of cotton, the last sheaf of wheat will be needed. We must not hesitate to do the drastic thing if it is to be the effective thing. It is the supremely effective thing that we want. But the second and third steps will rarely be needed if we say just what we want our people to do. I have yet to see the man who will say, 'I am for money out of this war at the expense of the government or of the people.' There must be some one to say what should be done. Congress can do it if it will take $0 or 90 percent of all war profits."

"This war is not to make any man rich. There will be revolution in the country if business works to that end, and socialism will surely come. The best protection to industry now is to see that industry is not allowed to take what it can get. To indulge selfishness, the selfishness which underlies trade in normal times, is to bring about the governmental ownership and operation of industries which have never been thought of as public utilities. So that this is a time when by following the 'business as usual' standard you will put yourself out of business. We must have more business of some kinds and less of other kinds, and profits must not climb or the people will pull down the ladder."

Leaders Realize Reasons

"I am persuaded that these reasons of expediency and far-sighted policy are realized by our industrial leaders. The most of them need no such danger as a threat. They will do what they are told to do in the name of the nation. And I favor telling them just what we want and letting them unite in every honorable way to bring about the end we seek. Direction—that is the word. And the government must have a board that will say who comes first and what comes first, a real priority commission. Otherwise all will be confusion."

Fischer walked, stole second and Boston, July 12.—St. Louis took two games from Boston today 7 to 5 and 6 to 3. Barnes made a bad start in the first game, the visitors making four runs in the opening inning on Konetchy's error, a pass, doubles by Hornsby and Cruise and Miller's triple. Doak was hit hard and often but this early quartet of runs gave him a lead the home team could not overcome. Ragan was pounded fiercely in the second game.

Here again the St. Louis men had one big inning making five runs on five hits in the sixth. Outfielders Rehag and Powell obtained from Providence played for Boston for the

Lemon Juice is Skin Beautifier,
Also a Whitener

Many women use just the juice of lemons to bleach or whiten the skin, but pure lemon juice is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months.
Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to bring back to any skin the whiteness, the sweet freshness and flexibility of which it has been robbed by carelessness or trying atmospheric conditions.—Adv.

Chicago, July 12.—Happy Felsch's timely hitting enabled Chicago to win both games of a double header from New York today by scores of 2 to 1 and 5 to 3, respectively. The first game was a pitching duel between Cicotte and Mogridge, and went ten innings. Weaver singled and took second on E. Collins' sacrifice. Felsch bounded a hit over Pipp's head and Weaver came home with the winning run.
After the visitors had bunched hits in the first inning of the second game, forcing Scott off the mound, the locals played an uphill game and then rallied so strong in the eighth inning that they forced Shawkey and Cullop off the mound. With the tying and winning runs on second and third, Felsch singled and sent both runners home.

PRICES FOR CATTLE AT RECORD POINT

FOURTEEN DOLLARS IS A PRICE THAT WAS HARDLY DREAMED OF A FEW YEARS AGO— LOWER LEVELS FOR SHEEP AND LAMBS

In Their Market Report This Week Written Under Date of July 11, Alexander, Ward & Conover Review the Chicago Livestock Market As Follows:

Dear Sir: Cashing cattle on a good market is a pleasure to the handler and likewise the owner. We both have participated in the pleasant week's trade. As we told you last week, everybody wants your good ones, and especially choice ones. These have sold at least 10c higher this week and in cases 10c to 15c. Monday's market being a good one for anything above $12.50 and best above $13.00, top being registered at $14.00 for two loads of fancy South Dakota 1602 pound Shorthorns, the smoothest here in weeks past. Even plain and medium stuff moves more freely now, though these started out weak sale. We sold 1112 pound Missouri long yearlings at $13.80, topping yearling market, and a long string of good to choice yearlings at $12.75 to $13.50 with heavy cattle up to $13.80, while again today we sold nice yearlings around $13.00 to $13.25, choice up to $13.50 to $13.75 on a market which with 16,000 cattle was strong on the good ones and slow on the others, the bulk of the stuff selling steady to 15c higher than last week's close. Top $13.95. Market today had a soft finish, last trades weak to 10c lower on bulk. Some a dime under Monday—mainly mediums.

Receipts still run liberal and we anticipate that they will for some time ahead, although there is going to be a broad demand for all classes of beef, and we believe that the grassers, which have been pounded severely in recent weeks, have about hit the bottom for the time being. There is no oversupply of grass cattle. Bear in mind that the government is establishing nine cantonment camps for the million soldiers who will be called to the colors and every one of them being strong, red-blooded Americans will want a strong man's diet—beef. The army demand is not going to be entirely for beef in tins, but orders are being placed for hundreds of millions of pounds of carcass beef, and you can rest assured that a heavy percentage of your grassers will go to fill this demand.

Prof. W. A. Cochel of Kansas visited us yesterday and said that a great many light cattle which went on the grass early in Kansas have been marketed, and no very liberal supply will come out of Kansas pastures within the next six or eight weeks. Army demand in conjunction with the broad civilian demand, due to the industrial activity everywhere, assures a good outlet for beef now that prices have been adjusted to meet the wide variation in qualities which are being marketed and will be for a long time ahead. The medium and common critter has his place in food distribution as well as the choice one. Keep your courage and don't sacrifice these kinds.

Receipts this week 39,500 in three days, a week ago 36,100, a year ago 38,700. Shippers after good ones in generous numbers and quality still running fair, though a short percentage was choice.

Butcher stock has sold to a little better advantage, especially good ones, but canners are slow and sell down to $5.50 to $6.00, while bulk of grass cows command $6.50 to $8.00 and choice $8.50 to $9.50 and up, prime heifers up to $12.00, decent to good grassers $7.50 to $8.50, handy corn-feds $9.00 to $10.00. Bull market shows some little improvement, also calves, best $15.00. Feeder trade slow, very little doing, prices weak; many farmers awaiting outcome of corn before buying.

In between seasons accounted for big run of hogs this week, 94,000 in three days, and broke prices hard on Monday and Tuesday, down to a top of $15.70 latter day, against $16.00 last Saturday, but market reacted some today on supply of 28,000. As we said last week, believe worst of break is over, but advise continuing to buy on wide margin. Mixed packing today largely $14.45 to $14.65, medium butchers $15.00 to $15.40, good heavy packing $14.55 to $14.65, fair to good light $14.40 to $14.90, prime 190 pounds $15.25 to $15.35. Look for moderate run the balance of this week and early next week. Prime butchers $15.50 to $15.65; prime heavy $15.65 to $15.75. A lower start in sheep and lambs this week due to poor outlet generally. Decline 25c to 50c Monday, but better demand Tuesday; steady to strong. Today, with 10,000, market 25c lower on lambs, top $15.75.

ORANGEMEN'S DAY IN BELFAST

Belfast, Ire., July 12.—Owing to the present state of social and political unrest throughout a large part of Ireland, the local authorities took extraordinary precautions today to prevent any disorderly demonstration in connection with the annual celebration of Orangemen's day. The day, which for generations has been the occasion for the biggest popular celebration of the year in Belfast and the north of Ireland, marks the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, fought July 11, 1690, between the troops of James II and the forces of William III. It was this battle that assured the ascendancy of Protestantism in England and Ireland. After the battle the Irish Catholics, who on account of their Jacobite leanings were oppressed by the English, began to form various semi-revolutionary organizations. In opposition the Irish Protestants formed the Loyal Orange institution, the members of which were known as Orangemen.

THOREAU'S CENTENARY SUITABLY OBSERVED

Exercises in Various New England Towns in Honor of Author and Naturalist.

Boston, Mass., July 12.—The one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Henry D. Thoreau was observed in New England today, more especially at Concord, where the famous author and naturalist was born July 12, 1817, and where he died in 1862. Schools and colleges, now closed for the summer, have arranged for a more formal observance of the centenary next fall, when similar exercises also will be held under the auspices of numerous literary and other societies.

Many critics have proclaimed Thoreau one of the greatest figures in American literature. He has been described generally as "the hermit of Walden," but he was much more than such a term implies. He was not the least faring that group of intellectual beacons which illuminated New England in the first half of the 19th century, and whose brightest light is represented in Emerson.

Thoreau was graduated from Harvard in 1837, but declined a diploma to save the additional five dollars. In 1838, bearing recommendations from Emerson and President Josiah Quincy of Harvard, he went to Maine with the intention of teaching school, but was unsuccessful in the quest for a position. For a short time he taught in Concord, but later engaged in pencil-making, which had been the occupation of his father. He succeeded in making a fair living by making pencils, but when he had attained such skill in this work that financial success seemed assured, he announced that he should never make another pencil, for he could never make a better, and the only time he did resort to this means of making money was when some dependent relative stood in need of aid.

He was a true student of nature, being even more at home in the open than under cover. In 1845 he built a hut on the shore of Walden pond, and for more than two years he lived there, in complete solitude, with occasional absences. His woodcraft was marvelous, enabling him to follow a trail by the tread, after dark. Thoreau was not a misanthrope, although he frequently expressed very cynical views. But he went into the woods to meet primitive conditions, to confront nature alone and deal with her at first hand. He afterward abandoned the enterprise, and recommended no one but the exceptional man to try it.

Thoreau never married and never left Concord except for a lecturing tour or a pedestrian excursion. It has been said of him: "Cities he disliked; civilization he did not believe in; nature was his passion, and the wilder it was the more he loved it."

And yet Thoreau was a fine scholar, in English and in Greek, and a few poems that he wrote are remarkable for their profound feeling and subtle beauty. Emerson, at his funeral, said of him: "His soul was made for the noblest society; he had in a short life exhausted the capabilities of this world; wherever there is knowledge, wherever there is virtue, wherever there is beauty he will find a home."

allowing to each a good profit take for the war in taxes all the surplus? That can be done.

Must Stimulate Output. "Whatever methods is followed the supreme end to be sought is the stimulation of output. Every railroad car must be made to carry its full load just as often as possible. And, every mine must yield as much of its deposit as can be blasted out. That means efficient pushing, enthusiastic administration and labor. Those men must be made to feel that they are doing Uncle Sam's work, soldiers in Woodrow Wilson's army, battling to make the world safe for democracy. They must have countenance, appreciation, honor and reward—and none of them skipped. The man who killed the goose that laid the golden egg thought he was a genius but the world holds him to be a fool.

"So far as the war needs of the government are concerned, the answer to any criticism is that whenever tested the administration has met the situation. For instance, Secretary McAdoo floated the unprecedented Liberty Loan with speed and a fifty percent over subscription; Secretary Baker has sent to Europe our first division in such a way as to meet the full expectation of both our own people and the Allies; Secretary Daniels has his fleet of destroyers moving in foreign waters; Secretary Houston's campaign for great food production has succeeded even beyond expectations; and so with Secretary Redfield's dealings with foreign commerce as export executive, and Secretary Wilson's handling of the difficulties arising out of the labor situation. The trials so far made have proved that the cabinet and the council have been a disappointment only to those who did not wish them well."

LONGING FOR A CHILD

Young Wife Almost in Despair. Now has Beautiful Baby Girl.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought joy to many childless women by restoring them to normal health. Here is a notable case.

Omaha, Neb.—"I suffered from female troubles when I was seventeen years old. I was married and my trouble was no better so I consulted a physician who said that there was not much I could do and I could not have children. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has proved worth its weight in gold to me for I am not only well but have a baby girl, so when I hear of any woman suffering as I was I tell her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. HUGHES, 19 Majestic Apts., Omaha, Neb.

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

CORN MAKES BIG BREAKS AND HIGH JUMPS

Market as a Whole Closes Nervous
at Prices Ranging from 2 1/2 Cents
Net Lower to 3/4 of a Cent Up—
Wheat Gains One Cent Net

Chicago, July 12.—Simultaneous big breaks and high jumping in grain values resulted today from the establishment of a maximum price for new crop deliveries that would prevail during the war. Rains ensued almost immediately on the announcement that equitable arrangements had been effected between the government and the chief industrial interests of the country.
The initial recovery was followed by additional advances, subject, however, to considerable profit-taking. Highest prices were made in the latter trading but fluctuations seemed irregularly the close partly because of the hardening of money rates.

FEAR IN GERMAN ARMYMilitary Experts Contrast That Condition With Spirit of French Soldiery.In a communication to the National Geographic Society, Granville Fortescue, the military expert, draws a sharp distinction between the French and the German soldier and the camaraderie which exists between the French officer and the men compared with the relations obtaining between the German officer and the boche private. A part of the communication is issued by the society as the following bulletin in its war geography series:The wide, unbridgeable chasm which exists between the officer and the private in the German company is but as tepid necessity in French battalions. French soldiers recognize the need for discipline, of the value of team work, and the urgency of obeying in battle, as the very foundation of their worth as citizen soldiers. They know also that they of their own volition have created the authority behind the officer, and for this reason there can be nothing degrading in the surrender of personal privilege in the crisis of war.Frenchmen are ComradesDiscipline is not maintained thru fear, but by public opinion. Each private soldier recognizes that his individual efficiency and the efficiency of the whole French army, is based on his prompt and intelligent obedience of orders delivered by military superiors.He knows that his officers are trained specialists in war, and he puts himself freely in their hands, so that the nation's will in war may be accomplished. He understands the successive limitations of military authority—the private to the sergeant, the sergeant to the lieutenant, the lieutenant to the captain, the captain to the major, and so on thru grade after grade up to General Petain, who, in turn, is responsible to France. With this conception of his duty, the most difficult part of military instruction is readily instilled into the French recruit.Thoroughly to appreciate the relations of officer to soldier in the French army, they must be seen together in the trenches. The captain watches over the men like a father.
He shows a sympathetic understanding of their difficulties, while demanding in the common cause a rigorous adherence to their duties. The officer sets the highest standard of performance for himself and exacts
the best each of his men can do.But the soldier knows he can go to his officer with his private trouble and receive helpful advice. He knows he will never meet with intentional injustice. And what gives him supreme confidence is the knowledge that he will be led with intelligence and skill.Protects Lives Of His MenThe French officer is constantly alert to take advantage of the enemy and safeguard his own men.
The greatest crime in the officer's calendar is wantonly to waste the life of a subordinate. Circumstances may call for the last sacrifice at times, but short of this condition the French commander husbands the lives of his men as a miser his pieces of gold. In an attack he will plan how they must creep from shell hole to shell hole, keeping as safe as possible from the enemy's artillery fire. He will study the ground in front of his trench for every available bit of cover and so maneuver his men that they will gain its coverage. He will elaborate every advantage. He will elaborate every trench and sap until his men are as safe as the battle front permits,

mands not only that he defeat theMAYR'S

CLUB MEMBERS FISHTry for Big Catch at Wolf Lake
Tuesday—Mr. Daniels Lands Fine
Channel Catfish—Day's Catch Almost Fifty PoundsLiterberry, July 12—The doings of the Literberry Big Four fishing club started a good deal of talk all of a fishy tang. Rev. C. G. Cantrall of Concord and Rev. F. M. Crabtree of White Hall came in demanding an opportunity to show what they could do in the line of winning a prize, with their tackle.Rev. Cantrall is a charter member while Rev. Crabtree is only a ornery member, but is entitled to compete for any prize offered by the club. Both these gentlemen were just champing the bit for a trial for the championship for the big catch.Tuesday morning at five the following started for Wolf Lake: Rev.
Cantrall in his Ford, with Rev.
Crabtree, J. A. Liter and Earl
Cooper. The second machine, S. H.
Crum's Hudson, contained S. H.
Crum, J. A. (Deacon) Daniels, familarly known as Deak, Dan the traveler and D. K. McCarty. Every man in this aggregation thought he could land the big catch, but their different occupations handicapped them. S. H. Crum is a good fellow but he has caught more hogs and calves than fish and this fact put him out of the running.Carl Cooper has ridden a motorcycle so much that he must do things with a rush and noise, and Deak Daniels has shaved so often men that he has become methodical, and it takes patience and good judgment instead of method for successful fishing. So Deak was an unknown quantity.Dan the traveler was the only man we feared. He has fished all over the Northwest, California and around Catalina Island for tuna;
but Dan failed on this occasion, why we do not know.Joe Liter had fallen in the unfortunate belief in luck he thought all he had to do was to put his hook in and sit down and wait for the fish to come his way and they did not come, and this let Mr. Joe out.Rev. Cantrall is one of the most industrious preachers we ever knew, but getting up at 4 a. m. and driving twenty miles, caused his mind to become divided between his fishing and the contents of several baskets in the cars and the passing of every hour lessened his desire to catch the big one and increased his desire to retire to the basket. This unfortunate circumstance let Rev. Can-trall out of the race good and plenty.At the noon hour there was spread a great feast under the trees, not only of good things, but in such quantities that one would marvel where they all came from.Brother Cantrall's desires were filled and baskets were emptied, but this only proved a detriment to him for he was no account all afternoon.You can see that the fight for the big one lay between Rev. Crabtree and McCarty. They were both in good condition and full of fight, determined to win. The race was neck and neck all day and at quitting time, about 5:00 p. m. the difference was so small that nothing but a very accurate measurement would decide the matter, but Rev. Crabtree claimed the prize, McCarty demurred.
Crabtree asked McCarty to acknowledge that he was beaten and hand over the belt, but McCarty refused.
Crabtree threatened to take his case up to the board of arbitration. Mc-Carty threatened to bring up a few points that would not sound well to outsiders, and there you are.The question of the big catch is not doubted for Deak Daniels proved this point by showing the goods. He dropped his hook directly in the way of a fine channel cat and had the pleasure of landing him, a nice fellow, weighing less than six pounds.
But Deak is not even an ornery member of the club and cannot claim the belt. See?All hands agree that they had a fine time and all wish to go again.
The whole crew took about fifty pounds, twenty five pounds of the credit of Crabtree and McCarty.A crew of the Literberry ladies piles for fifteen years—so bad at times that I would have to call a physician to put them back, as I was unable to do it myself, which under-

I took a course of treatment for piles

Tanlac Because of Relief Parent GainedClaude Petefish, well known farmer residing at Literberry, Ill., near here, made the following interesting statement on May 19, regarding the relief his mother, Mrs. W. H.
Petefish, gained through Tanlac, the celebrated new medicine."About four years ago mother began having trouble with her stomach and rheumatism has bothered her for about the same length of time. Her food never seemed to digest properly and didn't agree with her. She also suffered severe pains in her back and limbs, especially so in the mornings. She felt completely tired and worn out all the time."Well sir, mother has taken only one bottle of Tanlac but just this morning she told me that she felt better now than she has for the past three months. The pains in her back and limbs are not nearly so severe now. Her stomach, also, is greatly improved, the food she eats now seems to digest much better and agrees with her, too. Mother wants other people to know of the good Tanlac has done her so that they may try the new medicine and receive the same benefits."Tanlac is now being introduced in Jacksonville at the Coover-Shreve Drug Co., East Side store, where a special Tanlac representative is explaining the new medicine to the public daily. Tanlac also may be obtained
